Amkai Software Solutions Achieve Highest Rating

In a study commissioned by the U.S. Department of Defense (DOD), Parsons Institute of Information Mapping (PIIM - is a design, usability, and informatics consultancy, associated with Parsons New School, so rated Amkai's software among the top six commercially available software solutions for healthcare.

The DOD wanted to gain insight into improving the design and functionality of Armed Forces Health Longitudinal Technology Application (AHLTA), an EMR system developed by the DOD. The criteria of PIIM's evaluation were:

1. How well does the current AHLTA system meet the needs of the user?

2. What are the most significant gaps or weaknesses in the current AHLTA system?

3. How well does the current AHLTA system meet the needs of the user in a unique or more thoughtful manner than its peers?

4. How well does the current AHLTA system meet the needs of the user compared to its peers?

5. How well does the current AHLTA system meet the needs of the user compared to its peers in terms of cost, ease of use, and other factors?

6. How well does the current AHLTA system meet the needs of the user compared to its peers in terms of market share?

7. How well does the current AHLTA system meet the needs of the user compared to its peers in terms of demonstrations for the system beyond marketing collateral?

The study excluded document management or form based solutions, and focused on fully discrete data capable offerings.
