Amkai Introduces "Freedom Upgrade" Plan

Provides Painless Path for Surgery Centers to Replace Legacy Systems

Waterbury, CT --- May 14, 2008 --- Amkai announced today at the ASCs 2008 Convention the introduction of an attractive, limited-term pricing program in support of the launch of its AmkaiOffice™ 2.0 product, a next-generation management system. AmkaiOffice provides comprehensive information management for the business functions of scheduling, demographics, preference cards, inventory management, billing, and more.

The introductory Freedom Upgrade plan grows out of the recognition that most surgery centers run their businesses with older versions of administrative software and are facing an increasingly urgent need to replace these systems. Freedom Upgrade allows a customer to acquire AmkaiOffice for an investment with two components:

- An initial setup charge related to the size of the implementation and training
- An annual subscription fee that covers the software license, software upgrades, and ongoing support.

This approach avoids the kind of large capital outlay typically associated with a software system purchase. Based on its analyses, Amkai believes that in most cases the subscription will be the same or less as the customer's current annual support costs.

"This is a tremendous opportunity for an ASC to essentially change the name on the checks it writes for maintenance of older software and gain an entirely new system that meets today's demands," noted Don Fallati, Senior Vice President, Marketing. "We have worked hard to create an affordable incentive for an ASC to move comfortably to upgrade from outdated legacy systems to AmkaiOffice."

Additional incentives have also been developed for those customers who purchase AmkaiCharts™, the company's electronic medical record software, at same time as AmkaiOffice. This combined solution offers surgery centers a comprehensive information management approach that integrates the administrative and clinical sides of the business.

The Freedom Upgrade plan is a limited time offer. In keeping with the theme of the promotion, orders must be placed by Independence Day, July 4, 2008 to qualify for the program.

Amkai will be providing custom analyses of the pricing package for interested facilities at the ASCs 2008 conference. Those attending are encouraged to bring their current support payment information to booth 449. Those companies that will not attend are invited to contact Amkai through its website www.amkai.com.
